CONROE – Consolidated Communications employee David Fenley was recently awarded the company's highest honor – the Chairman's Award. The award is given annually to employees who demonstrate extraordinary performance on a special project or who continually exceed expectations.

Fenley, a business technologist, received the award from Consolidated Communications Chairman Dick Lumpkin at the company's recent annual meeting in Conroe.

When presenting the award, Lumpkin described Fenley as a "team player who consistently puts forth extra effort, including many extra hours, and exemplifies going above and beyond what is expected."

Fenley joined Consolidated Communications in January 1985. He and his wife, Melissa, have two children, Kaleb and Sadie, and reside in Central, Texas.
